About the Play

The Tragedy of Macbeth is Shakespeare's classic saga of a man whose ambition gets the better of him as he travels a path of fate. With witches that prophesy greatness and doom our hero is surprised when destiny first offers success, and his greed soon causes tragedy as he pushes fate forward faster perhaps than what might have been meant. We meet Macbeth following a victory on the battlefields, and from there watch as he gains power, with help from his wife, through nefarious means.

The play is acceptable for all ages, though there is symbolic depictions of violence and death.

Our Altar

Our witches have gathered various talismans and crafts as they unravel the fate of the characters, if you have a token you would like to contribute that will travel with us around the midwest, please feel free to add to the altar before or after the show. If you would like a craft to create your own token talk to a witch and ask for a craft (you can take it home or add it back to the altar once completed).

About Stone Soup Shakespeare

Stone Soup Shakespeare has been touring productions since 2011. The mission is always the same, create community through sharing stories, no tickets, no boundaries, no roadblocks. .

Our "stones" are a few words borrowed from Shakespeare, and a time long since gone. With these words, and a few found props we hope to bring you a story. As you pass by we invite you to stay awhile, share your curiosity, laughter, imagination, and time. In community we can relax, enjoy this lovely "backyard," and the sustenance of storytelling together.

This story is free, but if you are able to contribute to help us find our way to the next "backyard," we appreciate sincerely every penny.

The Story of Stone Soup

Stone Soup is a story that tells of a stranger who makes soup from a stone. As he cooks his recipe that consists of a magical stone and water, curious neighbors and wanderers offer what scraps they have to the soup with the promise that they can have a taste of the dish. Soon a bounteous stew is ready. Those who started alone with a little are served an abundant feast, and relax with a reminder of just how strong a community can be together.

THANK YOU

We have more thanks to offer than we can sum up here ever. Today we thank FAME Center for hosting us, Scotland and all their past kings, but mostly tonight thought we thank YOU audience, for joining us to tell stories together!
